SALT LAKE

CITY AND NEIGHBORHOOD.

P. H. Lannon, W. H. Baker, vice president, and E. J. Kelly, general superintendent, of the Postal Telegraph company, sent the first message over the new wire to Chicago to Clarence H. Mackay last Friday. The message was one of congratulation.

Ten thousand people attended the opening of the Utah State fair at Agricultural park Tuesday, one of the largest crowds in the history of the annual exposition. Of all the exhibits on the ground the most conspicuous was "Utah's best crop." Children were everywhere. You tramped upon them at the gate, they blocked your progress as you vainly endeavored to find your way through the main exhibition building, on the midway you stumbled over them again, and just when you had planted yourself in a quiet corner to secure a moment's rest, some leather-tipped youngster, with a megaphone or blaring tin horn, would come from your rear, with a defiant description. There was the fair's best array of choice fruits and vegetables, agricultural and dairy products, horses, cattle, swine and sheep. In addition there were booths containing almost every kind of factory product, from pianos to knitting needles. Utah's industries were all represented and there were a thousand and one "trick" exhibits. To describe them all or half of them would take a week. Visit the fair and see for yourself.

What becomes of all the colored babies? In the monthly report of the Salt Lake City board of health there was only one colored birth reported for the month of September. On having his attention called to this, Chief Clerk Broderick added the information that that was the only birth of a colored child that had been reported since he had been in charge of the office, and upon looking up the register it was found that it was the only one for the year. As it comes to the birth of a child there was only one colored child born in one year, it becomes a matter of interest to find out what becomes of them and where they are registered.

Archbishop Montgomery of San Francisco was in the city Tuesday. He visited Bishop Scanlan and was entertained at the Alta club by W. P. O'Meara.

Samuel Levy, a pioneer citizen of Salt Lake, and one of the most widely known men in the country, died at his home in this city Monday night of diabetes, after an illness of nearly two years. Mr. Levy came to Salt Lake in 1872 and engaged in the manufacture of cigars. At one time as high as 120 men were employed by him in making cigars. From 1880 to 1890 he accumulated a fortune of between $200,000 and $300,000 from the business. This was lost through unfortunate mining investments. Mr. Levy retained control of his cigar business, and though it was on a smaller scale, it enabled him to become independent before his death. Mr. Levy was known as a quiet, energetic citizen, one who worked for the interest and advancement of the city in which he lived. His death will be a distinct loss to the city and his family, but to his friends, who are numbered by thousands.

Regarding the disposition of miners' hospital fees and the hospital to which sick or injured shall be sent when occasion demands, Senator Keams said last evening that he was in the silver strike was concerned it was optional with the men. They themselves designate over their signature to which of the hospitals they will be sent, and if they require the services of a hospital they will be taken to the institution of their preference.

At a meeting held at the home of Mrs. W. A. Nelson Monday night it was decided by former members to discontinue the Philanthropic Guaranty society on account of lack of interest shown by the public. Last winter the society brought such artists as Lillian Blount and Harold Bauer, and went behind in its expenses.

Going to the fact that there has been no change regarding the payment of the poll tax this year, the collections for the month of September were ten times as large as those for the same month last year. Street Supervisor Seaton reports the amount for the month just finished at $2,025 as against $197 for last September. The total collections up to the date amount to $2,222 and there are still many notices to be served. After that comes the suing, and it is anticipated that the total amount for the year will be $14,000. Last year between $10,000 and $11,000 was collected.

Mass is celebrated every second Sunday in the month at 9 a. m. in Barker's hall, Murray.

Daniel Hickey was awarded $3,500 damages from the Rio Grand Western railway company. The case, which has been pending for a long time, was settled by the jury Tuesday in Judge Lewis' court. Hickey was suing the railroad for $15,000 for personal injuries received by him while unloading freight from a box car into a wagon in the defendant's yards. A switch engine in the yards scuffed the horses attached to the wagon and caused them to back it against the box car. Hickey was crushed between the wagon and the car and received permanent injuries.

Conference time with the crowds of strangers that flock to Salt Lake, always brings a harvest to the city clerk's office. In all parts of Utah, and the other states of the church, there are fond couples who make up their minds to be married at conference, so that they can come to Zion itself to take up the bonds. Many of them come for the special privilege of being married in the temple.

J. P. Langford of Park City, who may be regarded as one of the most able and influential representatives of organized labor in the west, came to the city Monday night and will remain to participate in the state miners' convention. Mr. Langford is secretary and treasurer of the union, I. of the Western Federation of Miners, and also president of the Park City local union. The confidence of his co-workers in his wisdom was shown last spring by his election as first president of the newly-formed State Federation of Labor. He is a student of the labor question in all its phases and has made marked success as a speaker.

by Mr. McDonough is a mining man of many years experience and has been particularly successful in the handling of large forces of men.

In the real estate field the high prices at which all owners are holding inside business property is retarding transfers. This same policy is having a tendency to spread the business area over a greater extent. One capitalist whose judgment is considered first-class advocates the formation of a strong syndicate to build up a retail department on a street other than Main to relieve the congested conditions on Main street and relieve small merchants from the exorbitant rentals now charged within the limited area devoted to retail business. This movement is certain to come sooner or later, and the gentleman speaking looked for its inauguration in the near future unless the business of the city should get a bad setback from some cause not in sight at this time.

"A stitch in time saves nine." This trite saying applies to every station in life. It is especially applicable in a commercial sense. A dollar saved will, in time, produce nine. The principal investor becomes in time insignificant when compared to the interest. To illustrate this, let us give a practical example. The following example: In 1855 for a child $100 a year for twenty years. At the age of 21 with 3 per cent annually compounded the child gets $2,665.45. If the principal was $100. But if invested at 6 per cent the child gets $3,999.27. In other words, the principal plus $1,899.27. Here is where "the stitch in time" saves for the child, or investor, $1,899.27. Some of our early investors have now almost reached this extraordinary extra saving, and that, too, without worry, as we always give our young people the full amount invested. Call and examine our way of doing business during the past eighteen years, or write, and we will satisfy you that "a stitch in time saves nine."

CATHEDRAL NOTES.

Archbishop Montgomery of San Francisco remained over in the city Tuesday and was the guest of Bishop Scanlan. His grace paid a visit to St. Mary's academy, the hospital of the Holy Cross and the John Judge memorial home. ST. MARY'S ACADEMY. Earnest Spirit Pervading All Departments of Study.

The first monthly reports of the year, noting the total averages for September not only in the studies of the regular course but also in music, art and other elective studies, were presented as serving to show each pupil the record she has made at the beginning of the new scholastic year. If satisfactory in every point, these cards are a promise of future success; otherwise they should spur the recipients to greater endeavors for the present month. Thus their purpose as an incentive to assiduous effort will be attained.

It is gratifying to observe a spirit of earnestness pervading all the departments of study. In the studio, for instance, the casual visitor discovers at a glance that the young artists are fully alive to the weight of their task, and by their method and the "season" of their work, they are making the most of their time. The nature study class would find the art room full of subjects for their investigation—a short cut, as it were, to their own peculiar domain. A huge jar of the brown and pink water colors, the vases of the Misses Evans and Desmond, while Miss Ashton has chosen a study of plums and peaches for a water color piece. The incident efforts of the Misses Branning, West, Franklin and Halloran bespeak future triumphs in the realm of art, while the members of the general class, junior department, evince worthy emulation in mastering the principles of free hand drawing.

Roll of honor for week ending Sept. 20, 1904—Miss McDonough, L. Guthrie, A. Rotzler, F. Donohue, K. Kane, P. O'Neill, K. McDonough, Desmond, M. Shields, C. Gotsdiner, J. McCue, H. Ashton, J. Dods, J. Guthrie, P. Gotsdiner, Evans, A. Carter, E. Robbins, A. King, E. West, D. Vance.

L. McKenna, C. Dickert, G. Sullivan, N. Lannon, L. Leisner, F. McChrystal, C. Bonner, L. Smith, M. Halloran, M. Moody, C. Castles, M. Ross, E. McMillan, A. Broyles, A. Castledine, E. Barry, N. Smith, R. Henderson, E. Burton, O. Kiser, M. Carpenter, L. Ryan, M. Franklin, J. Callahan, J. Bowden, R. Page, N. Hasbrouck, M. Donohue, E. Albin, E. Thomas, L. Rutledge, E. The bride, widow of D. C. McLaughlin, has too many friends here to need any introduction to Salt Lake. The groom is one of the best known of the young physicians of London. He is out of the staff of many of the large institutions of the British metropolis, although it is thought likely that he will resign from these to make his home permanently in the United States.

Ensign-Hart. The marriage of Miss Ella Haden and Frank Hart took place Monday in the rectory of St. Paul's chapel. The Rev. C. E. Perkins officiating. Following the ceremony the young people boarded a northbound train for a little trip, but will return to this city shortly to make their home. The bride is an accomplished young lady of this city and the groom is foreman of the Tribune, and very well known in newspaper circles. A host of friends will wish the bride and groom all success and happiness in their future life.

O'Connor-Gilroy. Many friends will be interested in hearing of the marriage of Miss Nellie O'Connor of Leadville to P. S. Gilroy of Ogden, Utah. The wedding occurred Sept. 21 at Annunciation church. Rev. Father Gibbons officiating. Concerning the nuptials the Denver Post in the issue of Sept. 18 said:

"Next Wednesday morning at the church of the Annunciation in Leadville, high social manner will be celebrated when Miss Nellie O'Connor is wedded to P. S. Gilroy of Ogden, Utah."

The ceremony will be solemnized at 9:30 o'clock by the Rev. Father Gibbons, and Denver guests will be in attendance.

Dr. J. W. O'Connor, chief surgeon of the Denver & Rio Grande railroad, who is the bride's brother, will be present and will be accompanied by his wife and his daughter, Miss Florence O'Connor, and his son, Walter O'Connor. Miss Alice Donovan of this city will be the bride's only attendant. The brother of the groom, Frank Gilroy, who is coming from Iowa to be present at the wedding, will officiate as best man.

For five years the bride-elect has been a popular employee in the mail-order department of the Denver & Rio Grande Goods company. Her beauty and charm of manner won her many friends, and it was with much regret that her resignation was accepted a short time ago. She gave no hint, however, of her approaching marriage, and the announcement of her engagement was a surprise to her Denver friends, although her acquaintances in the city had known three years ago when she was a visitor in the east. The bridegroom is a wealthy stockman, and he is building a handsome home for his bride.

A wedding breakfast, followed by a reception at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. James Knight of Leadville, will follow the service at the church.

Mr. Gilroy and his bride will visit the World's fair before going to their home in Iowa.

The bride is a sister of James O'Connor, the well known druggist, who is at present in Park City. Her home is in this city at 211 South Seventh East street.

Mrs. Gilroy and her sister, Mrs. J. Knight of Leadville, have many friends in Salt Lake, who will remember the charming women, who visited here a few years ago.

The Intermountain Catholic joins with hosts of friends in extending good wishes for all happiness to attend Mr. and Mrs. Gilroy.

Miss Jessie O'Neill returned Wednesday from a three months' sojourn at Butte, Mont.

P. J. Fennell of Eureka is being urged to accept the Democratic nomination for county commissioner.

Miss Lucy Clark returned Tuesday from a visit at Park City.

Mrs. Frank McPherson returned last Saturday night from a visit with friends at Payson.

Mrs. Hugo Deprezin and Mrs. James P. Driscoll returned Saturday night from a visit at Salt Lake and Ogden.

Dr. G. J. Field is taking a vacation, and during his absence Dr. L. B. Lakot of Chicago is attending to his practice.

D. B. Cronin and Edward Pike are candidates for renomination to the office of sheriff and county auditor, respectively, at the hands of the Democratic party. Both gentlemen are now serving their second terms.

John Cronin was injured in the Quincy mine at Park City last Friday by being struck by some falling rock. The force of the falling material carried Cronin with it down two floors. His injuries were painful but not in any way serious.
